

Errata to the Oregon Appellate Courts Style Manual (Updated 2022)

Replacement pages for 2023, to update an existing printed copy of the 2015 version.

(Note: No replacement pages were issued for 2019 or 2020.)

Pages 16-19 \(view printable replacement pages\):

Page 17, CITATION: I.C. Case Names

Adds instructions related to VAWA cases:

Exception for cases concerning the federal Violence Against Women Act (VAWA):

Per Joint CJO 23-012/23-01, effective April 1, 2023, when citing to any VAWA case, the author shall modify the case names to include only the initials of the protected party, regardless of how the case names were previously published. As stated in Joint CJO 23-012/23-01, cases are designated as “VAWA cases” in the Appellate Case Management System and include civil stalking, Family Abuse Prevention Act, Elderly Persons with Disabilities Abuse Prevention Act, Registration of Foreign Restraining Orders, Sexual Abuse Protection Orders, Extreme Risk Protection Orders, and Punitive Contempt Cases, most of which involve the violation of restraining orders, as well as other individual cases that court staff have determined should be so designated under the provisions of VAWA.

Pages 20 \(view printable replacement page\):

Page 20, CITATION: II.A. Oregon–Full Citations

Adds (see text formatted in red) instructions related to VAWA cases:

The basic citation format for a full case citation includes these elements, in this order: name of the case (using the official running head, but redacting any protected party’s name to initials in VAWA cases, see example on page 25); volume, abbreviated name of the official reporter, and beginning page number of the case; parallel citation to regional reporter; parenthetical indicating year case was decided; subsequent history; and any other pertinent parenthetical information.

Page 24-26 \(view printable replacement page\):

Page 25, CITATION: II.A. Oregon–Full Citations

Adds examples and note related to VAWA cases:

6. VAWA (Violence Against Women Act) Cases

Case title in court records: Protected Party v. Second Party

Title Page format: P. P. v. SECOND PARTY

Full citation format (even if previously published as Party v. Party):

P. P. v. Party, 325 Or App 123, 456 P3d 789 (2023).

Short citation format: P. P., 325 Or App at 124.

NOTE: When redacting a name to initials, use the first letter of each name in the protected party’s name, maintaining hyphens, if used (e.g., Jane Doe-Smith v. John Doe would be formatted J. D.-S. v. Doe, if Jane is the protected party; Doe-Smith v. J. D., if John is the protected party). Short citation format follows the same rules set out below--using the first nongovernmental party, whether initials or not.

Page 61 \(view printable replacement page\):

Page 61, QUOTATION: II.B.6. Insert a Citation Within a Quotation

Adds instructions and example related to VAWA cases:

When quoting text that refers to a VAWA case using an unredacted case title, use brackets to redact the name of the protected party to initials, e.g.,

“ ‘Danger’ in this context means ‘a threat of physical injury, not merely a threat of annoyance or harassment.’ [K. R.] v. Erazo, 248 Or App 700, 706-07, 274 P3d 214 (2012). To ‘ “[c]oerce” means to restrain, compel or dominate by force or threat.’ ORS 163.730(2).”

H. L. P., 309 Or App at 113-14.

Page 2 \(view printable replacement page\)

Updates Table of Cases page numbers for

CITATION: I.E. String Citations

CITATION: I.F. Signals

CITATION: II.B. Oregon–Short Citations and Other Issues

Pages 121 \(view printable replacement page\)

Pages 128-130 \(view printable replacement page\)

Updates some Index page numbers and adds VAWA entries

Replacement pages indicating (Updated 2023):

Cover \(view printable replacement page\)

Page 1 \(view printable replacement page\)

Page 66 \(view printable replacement page\)